New Winter Puppet Show

HOW COYOTE SAVED THE DAY!

Spirit has stolen the Sun and left the world cold and in the dark. Only Coyote is smart enough and brave enough and strong enough to make a plan and bring the Sun, with its warmth and light, back to the Earth.

How Coyote Saved the Day is an age-appropriate, highly interactive story drawn from timeless world myths explaining where the Sun goes in the winter. It's a story of team work, friendship and courage as well as being a really exciting thriller!

All Digger & David shows can be performed in a variety of settings: libraries, pre-schools, schools, early education programs and day cares.

Who is David?

If you've ever seen a puppet show or met the Mad Hatter at the Please Touch Museum, chances are you already know David. He's entertained generations of kids and their big people with his gentle and silly humor, sense of fun, and age-appropriate lessons about sharing, kindness, individuality, acceptance and responsibility.

About David Hutchman

David has been performing for children's audiences for 35 years. For the past 17 years he could be found at Please Touch Museum, where he entertained thousands of young children and their families with original, innovative and interactive one-man puppet shows and his famous end-of-the-day parades.

He also hosted many iconic Please Touch Museum events, such as the Storybook Ball and Countdown2Noon, as the Mad Hatter.

David earned his bachelor's degree in theater from Temple University and his master's of fine arts in directing from Tulane University.

He is fully certified and insured to perform in school settings. And Digger has had all his shots.

"David is a Philadelphia treasure with decades of experience creating inventive, imaginative, and magical shows. His work never fails to delight and entertain audiences of all ages. Just hire him. He's awesome."

Alice Goglewski, Outreach Coordinator
Children's Hospital of Philadelphia

About Digger & David Shows
